

After having summoned their latest manifesto of grief and hope, “Anno 1696”, in February of this year, Finnish melodeath masters INSOMNIUM will finally present their new songs on the European stages again.

Scheduled to kick off in Manchester on November 5th, the extensive headline tour of 32 dates will take the band to 11 countries. Support will come from Sweden’s melodic death melancholists IN MOURNING as well as Pagan metallers KVAEN, and the tickets will go on sale on June 29th at 16:00 CEST (exclusive Eventim pre-sale for the German shows is already available).

The band’s latest album Anno 1696 is still available in several formats here:
