Vocal powerhouse Vince Freeman has shared a performance video for his latest single 'Blame Myself' - the third release from his highly-anticipated debut album Scars, Ghosts & Glory, out March 22nd.

This live rendition of 'Blame Myself', an unapologetic soulful stomper from the record which was released on 24th January, features a full band and further spotlights the singer-songwriter's undeniable vocal prowess as he reflects on the decisions he has made. While the track is centered around the idea of owning the choices we make in life, it also speaks directly to Freeman's own journey of self-acceptance.
